

Aaron Davis, Supervisory Occupational Safety and Health Specialist, Marine Corps Installations Pacific, Marine Corps Base Camp Smedley D. Butler was honored by the National Safety Council(NSC) as a Rising Star of Safety during the 2014 NSC Congress & Expo in San Diego on 16 September 2014.

The NSC Rising Stars of Safety program presented by DuPont Sustainable Solutions, now in its fifth year, recognizes future leaders for their dedication and influence in Safety. With many outstanding worldwide nominations to choose from, the honorees selected this year have shown a strong commitment to promoting a cycle of continuous improvement and creating initiatives focused on measureable outcomes – key components of the Journey to Safety Excellence.

“We are pleased to continue our support of the NSC Rising Stars of Safety program, acknowledging the Safety leaders of tomorrow,” said James Weigand, president, DuPont Sustainable Solutions. “We offer our sincere congratulations to each of this year’s honorees, who are truly making a difference in the world with their passion and talent.”

"This year, we recognize a talented group of individuals at our Congress & Expo," said Deborah A.P. Hersman, president and CEO of NSC. "These young professionals are rising to meet emerging safety challenges and are the future leaders of the Safety movement."